Walt's Notes

I love October. The sense of community that is proclaimed at harvest time so exemplifies how we should approach life. Crops have to be collected before the cold of winter sets in. Neighbor helps neighbor and friendships become paramount. So it is with Christians. We nurture and protect each other; we come together to harvest souls and gather the blessings around us that God has provided. We celebrate unity and community. We work side by side, praying for and lifting each other. We are so very fortunate to have each other knowing that we can count on one another as we gather the harvest that God has provided by His love and grace
